Hi Brian,

I'm not sure these results ever got uploaded into an online database. Attached is what I had on this. The spreadsheet titled 'City of Spokane - PCB Product Testing Results.xlsx' is probably easiest to work with (and also includes some follow-up sampling we did which wasn't a part of the 2014 sampling). I also included the original lab reports/EDDs for the 2014 sampling.

Hope this is helpful. Let me know if you have any questions or need anything else. Happy Holidays to you as well!

Thanks,

Jeff

Jeff:

Our PCB coordinator Michelle Mullin has been compiling PCB product testing data. We were hoping to find the congener-level results from Spokane's "PCBs in Municipal Products" report, since the report itself either reports data as total PCBs or in bar graphs showing concentrations of individual congeners (and sometimes in the text).

<https://static.spokanecity.org/documents/publicworks/wastewater/pcbs/pcbs-in-municipal-products-report-revised-2015-07-21.pdf>

Were the congener-level data were entered into the Task Force's database or EIM, or otherwise published online? If not, are you able to send it to me?

Thanks and happy holidays!

Thank you,

Brian Nickel, E.I.T.
